BLEW A LIVING GALE

Local District Was Hard Hit By Tuesday Night's Storm

Division Superintendent H. P. Blodgett of the Central Maine Power Co., said Wednesday morning that several local power lines were out of order and one of the two transmission lines from Augusta to Glen Cove was out, as a result of heavy southerly storm, with rain, which started Tuesday night. Most of the interruption of service was due to breaking down of wires by heavy limbs blown from trees, all over the section.

Thomas C. Stone, manager of the Belfast-Rockland district of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., reported that eight toll circuits and approximately 200 local lines were out of order, representing between four and five hundred subscribers' telephones. A large part of the failure was due to moisture driven into cables and drop-wires by the heavy wind, although some lines were down because of flying tree limbs and in some sections a few poles were down.

All available men worked to restore service as quickly as possible. This was the most extensive interruption of power, light and telephone service since the sleet storm of March, 1940.

The steam lighter Sophia of the Snow Marine fleet, which was at Rockland Fuel wharf, drifted on to the beach to the north of the wharf, little damage resulting.

Tanker Gulfport broke most of her holding lines and guard rails were ripped off; Alden Stanley's Gertrude II, dragged its mooring and was boarded and moved just before it reached the stone embankment at the public landing; Texoil, tanker broke away from Underwood wharf, damaging guard rails, and Rockland Gulf, broke away from Ramsdell wharf and will be repaired at Camden.

About 30 feet of Rockland Fuel Co., wharf was torn away by heavy seas early Wednesday morning, and a neon sign at Naum & Adams store was dislodged from its brackets.

A Quiz Program

Soon To Be Presented By Rotary Club—Miss Steele Today

Miss Eliza J. Steele, R. N., Public Health Nurse, will speak upon her work at the Rotary Club meeting at the Thorndike Hotel Friday at 12.15 p. m. The Rotary Information Committee is preparing a quiz program to be presented in the near future.

Two thousand Rotary Clubs report that: 970 local defense councils are headed by Rotarians; 6901 Rotarians serve their local councils as staff officers; 21,295 Rotarians have taken, or are taking, the training courses recommended by O.C.D. as air raid wardens, auxiliary police, fire watchers, etc.; 4059 Rotarians have donated to the local blood banks; 4743 Rotarians have left their regular vocations to accept full time war work; 3674 Rotarians have appeared as guest speakers before other organizations for purpose of disseminating factual information about the war effort; 894 Clubs have offered their corporate services and man power to local defense councils, and 290 Clubs have sponsored meetings to educate the public as to various phases of the war effort.

The fruit of the SSpirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law.

[EDITORIAL]

RAISING NINE BILLIONS

The Victory Fund Committee faces an heroic task when it seeks to raise $9,000,000,000 in three weeks through the sale of government securities. The war is costing us now about $6,000,000,000 a month. After the steepest tax levies in our history, and the ever increasing sale of war savings bonds and stamps, the government is faced with a huge deficit. This must and will be made up through borrowing from the citizens of this country. They are asked to lend it and in return will receive interest fair from every angle, a security backed by the credit of the strongest nation in the world.

The principal issue now offered is the Victory 2 1/2 percent bond carrying interest coupons, which can be cashed every six months. The bonds mature in 26 years, although the government reserves the right to redeem them in 21 years. They have a ready and open market at all times. The Victory 2 1/2s can be used for collateral on bank loans. Those Victory 2 1/2s are by no means a "rich man's investment." They are available in denominations as low as $600. They are in every way comparable to the Liberty Loan bonds of 25 years ago, although they have a longer maturity which makes them more attractive to the average investor.

BACK TO THE RAILROADS

With traffic running so heavily to railroad trains and buses it is not surprising that the Maine Central Railroad is coming into a measure of its old time prosperity. Take the month of October, for instance. The Maine Central's net income over and above its fixed charges was $218,489, compared with the net income of $69,273 reported by the road in October, 1941, before the lack of gas and tires began to drive travelers back to the steam railroad method of transportation. Profits cannot fail to show an increasing up-turn, for which nobody should begrudge the corporation which was so sadly down on its luck only a few years ago.

NOW'S THE PROPER TIME

The public is following with avid interest the progress of the inquest which is being held in connection with the Coconut Grove disaster, and fully approves the likelihood that those responsible for the loss will receive their just desserts. It is hoped, however, that this will be no temporary flurry, forgotten after nine days by all except those who lost relatives through the catastrophe. Now seems to be the psychological time to bring about a reform in methods and laws throughout the country. Do not let the tragic lesson go for naught.

The Rumford Falls Times is being widely congratulated upon moving into its new quarters. Extending an invitation to visitors, the editor says: "We believe that your home town newspaper now has one of the finest printing establishments in the State." And may we be permitted to add that the establishment has one of the best weekly newspapers in the State.

Benito Mussolini has at last made one really remarkable contribution to the history of his age. Wednesday afternoon he announced, more plainly than one can remember any statesman having done in modern times, the total bankruptcy of his regime and the defeat of the great nation which was so reckless as to submit itself to his meretricious leadership. After Mussolini's latest forensic effort, cautiously made from the safe bombproof of his puppet Parliament chamber, with press and people rigorously excluded, one can say with reasonable confidence that Italy is out of this war.

Italian airmen, soldiers and sailors will no doubt continue to fight bravely, as they have done in the past, since they, like their country, have been entrapped by this incredible mountebank. But there is nothing left at the head. The leader has proclaimed himself in a state of total collapse; there is a vacuum in command, and Italy is finished as a serious factor in the affairs of peoples until such a time as she can shake herself free of this blight and resume her place as one of the great heritors of Western civilization.

Fish Landings

Arrivals of mixed fish since Nov. 23 has been comparatively light, owing to weather conditions. Pares received at the O'Hara plant since that date were: Cynthia, Capt. Ira Tupper, 8000 pounds, Carlsans, Capt. Carl Reed, 1000 pounds; Dorothy M. Capt. Clarence Bennett, 14,000 pounds; Salvadore, of Gloucester, 37,000 pounds; Austin W., of Gloucester, 100 pounds, and Fordham, Capt. Reuben Doughty, Jr., 30,000 pounds. The only arrivals at Feyler's during that period were those of the Helen Mae, I. Capt. Robert Anderson, two trips, totaling 7000 pounds haddock.

SIX MORE SALVAGE TUGS

To Be Built Under a New Contract At the Camden Shipyard

It never rains but it pours. It rained plenty hard in the Camden shipyard Wednesday morning, and down out of the sky came Naval contracts for the construction of six 165-foot salvage tugs, in addition to the six already being built there. The keels will be laid just as soon as enough ways are clear. The next launching will take place Monday at 10.45, when another A.P.C. boat will go overboard—seventh of that type to be launched this year. The boat will be christened by June O. Labbie, daughter of the office manager of the Bureau of Ships at Bath.

Boats building, or to be built in the Camden shipyard, under the existing program, mean $10,000,000 worth of work for that concern.

There are 11 craft on the stocks at the present moment and more than 800 on the payroll.

Much On His Shoulders

If they ever pass out an award to the business man in Rockland there will be none to gainsay that the title belongs to the man pictured above—Morris B. Perry. His private business affairs have assumed such broad proportions as to stamp him a captain of industry, and they have demanded his attention from early morning until late at night.

Enough work to occupy one man's attention, everybody will agree, but matters of civic welfare—patriotic warfare—long ago caught up with him, and in this war, as was the case in the first World War made extraordinary demands upon his time, patience and ability. Today finds him chairman of the Price and Rationing Board—a task so tremendous and so exacting, with a maximum of demands, and a minimum of thanks—that nobody can possibly envy him. The government and the public should be thankful that such a man can be found.

Rockland Lions

Chief Engineer Russell Cites Lessons of Boston's Fire Horror

When Chief Engineer Van E. Russell appeared as guest speaker before the Rockland Lions Club there was nothing about his appearance to indicate that he had been out on 13 fire calls since the previous morning.

The tireless official who directs that important branch of city affairs might just have come out of the bandbox, as the old saying goes.

Talking on the subject of "Fire Prevention," Chief Russell's thoughts naturally reverted to the Coconut Grove disaster.

"Providing more and safer exits is not going to be the answer to such tragedies," he said, "for there are other and greater dangers—carbon monoxide, or worse. Inhalation of these is sufficient to cause death."

Urging the need of better fire inspection he declared that there will be no such thing in the future as putting up new buildings in any old way. "Are we going ahead with the reforms now or wait until something else happens? I can show you plenty of places where the conditions are faulty."

Chief Russell told of a forthcoming

The Senior Play

"June Mad" Will Be Presented Dec. 10-11 At High School

The Senior Class play, "June Mad," a three-act comedy, was chosen for its sparkle, its vitality, and artistic excellence.

Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements, authors of "June Mad" are one of the well known writing teams of the world. Since their marriage in 1927, they have turned out many short stories, plays and novels, all of which have been a success. Florence Ryerson, as a matter of fact, was the only woman who had anything to do with the successful production of "The Wizard of Oz."

Remember how you enjoyed yourself at the Junior Class Play "What A Life" last year? Well, bear in mind that this play is by the same class, and many of the players who were in "What A Life" are also in this one. The principal's lovely assistant portrayed by Virginia Foster becomes Julie Harris. Do you recall that sober, unsmiling detective (Barrett Jordan)? He is in it as well as Barbara Wood, who was depicted as one of the fussy old maid school teachers.

Henry Aldrich's girl friend (Dottie Haveren) in this play becomes Penny Wood, and the motherly Mrs. Aldrich (Alice Cross) again portrays the mother of Penny. Playing opposite Dottie Haveren is Robert Coffey in the role of Chuck Harris. There are also some new comers to the stage that are doing very well in their parts, and, as this is a Senior Class Play it would be well to say that also in the play is Dennis Trask, a Freshman.

The usher cast for this play to be presented at the R.H.S. Auditorium Thursday and Friday, Dec. 10-11 at 8.15 comprises: Head usher, Louise Smith; assistants, Dorothy Tibbets and Kay Blackman; ushers: Alice Pinkerton, Mary Ramsdell, Lois Lindsey, Dorothy Sylvester, Margaret Winslow, Marjorie Wiggin, Violette Gerrish, Arlene Bartlett, Madelyn McConchie, Bertha Coombs.

ing demonstration of fire chemistry and added that $12,800 worth of property had been saved with the use of salvage equipment, most of which had been donated.

The speaker said that the Fire Department had answered 270 local calls this year, mainly chimney fires; and that it had made 19 trips within a radius of 22 miles.

"We are going to have seven pumps in this city," said Chief Russell, "but the thing that handicaps us most is the lack of manpower. The Department has such a small number of available and capable men that we would be glad to train auxiliary firemen."

Lawrence J. Danderleau presided over Wednesday's meeting in the absence of King Lion Ralph P. Conant—who was present.

The club learned with much pleasure of the accession of a new member—Willis R. Vinal, the popular Register of Probate.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

Lacking gas and tires—and the automobile itself—Robert Webster and I trudged Sunday over four miles of local highway re-visiting the scenes of my boyhood. The walk took us through Lindsey Grove, or that portion of it which is negotiable, walking due north from my old home on Limerock street. Instead of going straight through the grove we landed on Beech street, and I missed seeing those big trees where I used to gather beechnuts a good many years ago. While the region was known to several generations as "Lindsey Grove," it really consisted of three groves, under ownership of John S. Coburn, David Winslow and George S. Lindsey. Mr. Winslow sold his part—the middle section—to the real estate concern of Walker & Rose, and the late Charles A. Rose built the fine residence now owned and occupied by Dr. Rupert L. Stratton.

Our walk took us, also to the new observation post on Middle Street Hill, where Arthur E. Saunders was maintaining a lone but faithful vigil. And then by a dint of climbing wire fences we made our way across "The Look-out," finding there little or no change since the days when we kids played injun there, and scalped the entire white population. Great days those were, but to me it was a very unfamiliar Limerock street down which we came. In my boyhood days I knew every resident of that long and crooked thoroughfare. As one should who was born there.

There were some moments during Tuesday night's storm when the inmates of the Dr. James Kent residence on Limerock street might have been pardoned for thinking it was a haunted house. It was the snooziest part of the night—3 a. m., to be exact—when there came a loud and insistent ringing of the back door bell. Doctors' phones have a habit of ringing at such hours, so the housekeeper lost no time in going to the door. Much to her surprise and chagrin there was nobody there, or in sight. Back to bed she went, but was hardly there when the ringing continued. This time the Doctor answered the urgent summons, with the same result. Nobody answered the subsequent rings. If it's the work of jokers, quoth the Doctor, let 'em have their fun. The wind died down and the ringing ceased. The miscreant was the gale itself.

A correspondent writes: "I can plainly remember the great gale in which the Portland was lost, but was too young to remember the date. I have heard some of the older people say it was the night of Nov. 27, but now I hear it said it was Nov. 29. Will some one set me right on this date?"

The gale began on the night of Nov. 27, and lasted through the following day. Mrs. E. W. Peaselee is an ardent Red Cross worker, and she was very proud of the Red Cross sweater she had knit. So proud, that while she was on the way to deliver it yesterday she stepped into the "Ford Cleaners" on Limerock street to exhibit it. And then, with the sweater over her arm, she proceeded to the Gregory clothing store. "What in the world have you got there?" inquired a friend. "Oh! let me show you," said she, and then, to her great dismay she took from her arm what proved to be only the neck of the treasured sweater. The rest had become unravelled between the Ford Cleaners and Gregory's.

One year ago, Republicans re-elected Mayor Edward R. Veazie by 202 majority and carried five of the seven wards—Dr. Lester B. Bradford opened an office in his residence, 50 Masonic street.—Rev. W. F. Brown resigned from the pastorate of the Camden Baptist Church to take special studies.—Rockland High School students, with Bradford Ames as "mayor" took charge of City Hall.—Frank F. Harding was renamed recorder of the Municipal Court.—Fire destroyed a barn in Hope, owned by Halver Hart killing a valuable pair of horses.—Among the deaths: Vinalhaven, Isaac G. Calderwood, 72; Swans Island, James W. Sprague, 54; Camden, Edgar L. Norton, 85; Rockport, Charles F. Ingraham, 65.

Men's Service Club

Methods Discussed For Helping the "Boys" During the Holidays

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the heads of committees and the Senior and Junior hostesses of the Rockland Men's Service Club, called by Mrs. Charles Emery. Many things were talked over and ideas for coming events and improvements were suggested.

Arrangements will be made for any boys wishing gift parcels for home folks to be wrapped at the service room.

Margery Mills will have charge of making up packages of magazines to be placed aboard boats off on sea duty. Anyone having late numbers may put them to this good work.

The incoming hostesses are asked to be especially careful about arriving at the rooms on time, and to watch the papers for their day of serving. All these things help to keep everything working smoothly.

Cards will be printed and given to the Junior hostesses to be presented to the hostess in charge each evening.

With the coming of cold weather the rooms are kept busy and the boys seem to take an interest in all that is being done for them.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

O WORLD

O world, thou choosest not the better part! It is not wisdom to be only wise, And on the inward vision close the eyes. But it is wisdom to believe the heart, Columbus found a world, and had no chart. Save one that faith deciphered in the skies. To trust the soul's invincible surmise Was all his science and his only art. Our knowledge is a torch of smoky pine That lights the pathway but one step ahead. Across a void of mystery and dread. Bid, then, the tender light of faith To shine to shine to shine to shine. By which alone the mortal heart is led Unto the thinking of the thought divine.

Book Review

(By E. S. F.)

Autumn Leaves. Author Edward Coulou Craig. From The Christopher Publishing House, Boston.

A book not too large, a collection of poetry and prose with thought for the title taken from his ending poem in the volume of poetry. This author takes himself seriously, rather more so than in the general run of humans. He feels deeply that happiness must be the goal of life, and humanity should strive for a conduct of living that will bring joy to its fullness of possibility. By a deep study of self this idealistic result will follow.

Edward Craig is an example of the oil of patience with delicate touches and with his mastery of force at other times. There is good reading and deep thought in the poetry and prose in this little volume of less than two hundred pages. A nice bed-side book, well bound and well printed; a Christmas gift that would give pleasure, comfort and repeated food for thought in the poems and philosophy it holds.

K. S. F.

The Day Must Dawn. By Agnes Sligh Turnbull. Published by The Macmillan Company, New York.

This romance of pioneer life in Western Pennsylvania pictures the hard rigors of a wilderness. When in 1777 a high spirit of courage in woman with the unfailing hope they held in their philosophy, gave them strength to meet sacrifice with bold sincerity and tenderness. And the men of those vigorous times were invincible with hardy courage, "No surrender" being their motto.

When Washington was camped at Valley Forge with scant food and clothing, with hope deferred and fears growing in his camp, while Indians, turning to help the British baffled them—those were harrowing times.

The book is meaty with adventure, love and life. The story of a strong superior woman and her dealings and relationship with family and friends through the hardships of pioneer years, also love and courtship with animated interest; pulsing, I believe, as one of the finest stories of the year, with its brilliant grasp on the mind and interest in the readers' hearts. This writer is the author of many short stories. Her novel "The Rolling Years" and "Remember the End"—both fine tales—and these with "The Day Must Dawn" are all about West Moreland County of Western Pennsylvania.

Her books are worthy and welcomed by the reader with high ideals and wishes for vivid literature skillfully handled.

At The High School

By The Pupils

Strange phenomena of science were displayed before the student body and teachers, at the Senior High assembly, Tuesday morning, under the title of "This Mysterious Universe." The program was presented under the auspices of the physics and chemistry classes, taught by Mr. Sturtevant, head of the science department, with Douglas Perry as master of ceremonies.

Three chemistry students, Anson Olds, Charles Carr and Richard Achorn, did a series of experiments, producing smoke and fumes. Joseph Wilkie then appeared on the scene and asked for a chocolate soda. Mr. Achorn immediately dashed a few chemicals into a glass, which foamed and fizzed, taking on a very appetizing appearance. But, as Mr. Wilkie soon discovered, appearance is sometimes deceiving, and after one taste he was seen to leave the stage, leaving behind him his soda. Mr. Olds and Mr. Carr also did interesting experiments, changing milk to wine, and vice versa, and amazed their audience with blue flames and midge explosions.

The second half of the program, presented by the physics students, Jason Thurston, Byron Keene, Omond Palmer and Raymond Chisholm, was equally amazing. Mr. Thurston, a great radio and electricity enthusiast, had with him an

A review from The Courier-Gazette of happenings which interested Rockland and vicinity during the corresponding period in 1917.

William Thorndike, who joined the Naval Reserve Force, fell from a hammock, breaking one of his arms.

Hyman Alperin sold his candy store on Main and Peasant streets to his brother, Samuel Alperin.

Oscar G. Burns bought the Sanford-Talbot house on Middle street.

Thanksgiving turkey retailed 40 to 50 cents a pound.

Theresa (Butler) widow of A. F. Crockett died at her home on Camden street aged 78 years.

Sch. Frontenac, commanded by Capt. William Ward, was lost in passage to Buenos Aires.

The Methodists netted $250 at induction coil which he himself had made and which was capable of producing 200 times as many volts as are needed in the Electric Chair to electrocute a victim.

With his assistants and with darkness prevailing throughout the auditorium, Mr. Thurston produced sparks three inches long, lighted fluorescent tubes by merely bringing them near his apparatus, and lighted neon bulbs through his own body.

Mr. Chisholm played appropriate piano music, adding to the weird effect of it all. The program was concluded by a very fitting "V" for victory, formed by two fluorescent tubes. Alice Hall led the devotional exercises.—Douglas Perry.

Through the fine co-operation of everyone in Senior High School, the Junior Red Cross enrollment drive was a 100% success, total membership being 453 members with a total of $17.16 for the service fund.

Those who assisted the home room teachers in this drive were Maxine Cheyne, Mary Watkins, Mary Wellman, Sylvia Christofferson, Rose Evanski, Betty Holmes, Beverly Rogers, Charlotte Cowan, Ruth McMahon, Faith Long and Gordon Wotton. The enrollment committee was composed of chairman, Mary Connolly; assistant chairman, Elaine Poust and Virginia Witham.—Alice Hall, President of Red Cross Council.

The Weather

The chilly greeting which this season of the year is prone to bestow upon us has not been lacking the past few days. Sunday night's combination snow and rain storm, accompanied by freezing temperatures, has left the ground with an icy coating, but no snow comparable to that which fell in Camden and Rockport, where the heavily laden trees present a beautiful picture. B. D. (before dim-out). Today, beginning the last month of 1942, will be 9 hours and 7 minutes long. The sun rose at 5:01. Have you shopped?

Dr. Day's Visit

Noted Preacher-Author Will Speak Here Tuesday Night

Dr. Richard E. Day

Dr. Richard Ellsworth Day, of Sunnyvale, Calif., will be the speaker at the monthly Bible conference which will convene in the First Baptist Church, on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Day has won wide renown as the author of three religious "best sellers," a notable distinction for any writer. The first was "The Shadow of the Broad Brim," a highly interesting life of Charles G. Spurgeon. This was followed with "Bush Aglow," the life of Moody, particularly of those years when he sought and received that endowment of power which enabled him to win thousands in many large cities on both sides of the ocean. The third book is one of daily readings entitled, "Filled with the Spirit."

Dr. Day was, for many years, pastor of Baptist churches in the California and Arizona area, as well as in Toronto, Canada. He was president of the State Convention of Arizona and active in evangelistic Baptist denominational affairs throughout his ministry. He has been used widely in Bible conference work from coast to coast, as well as in evangelism.

This Bible Conference is held under the joint auspices of interested churches of this area and of the New England Fellowship, of Boston. The public is invited.

Activities at Odd Fellows hall next week will be: Knox Lodge meeting Monday night at 7:30; Miriam Rebekah drill meeting Tuesday night and Rockland Encampment Wednesday night. Miriam Rebekah will hold a Christmas party, Dec. 15.

Mrs. Addie Brown was elected president of Auxiliary to Canton Lafayette, I. O. O. F., Wednesday night. Other officers elected were: Miss Doris Hyler, vice president; Mrs. Nina Davis, secretary and Mrs. Florence Lovejoy, treasurer.

Knott C. Rankin, vice president and general superintendent of the Rockland & Rockport Lime Co., Inc., has been appointed by Gov. Sumner Sewall as commander of services in the Knox County Civilian Defense organization. Mr. Rankin and John M. Pomeroy, Knox County Co-ordinator will supervise the needs and despatching to the various towns in the county.

Mrs. Doris Dorr of Augusta is in the city for an indefinite stay, while employed with the Knox County Rationing Board.

Men will have charge of the supper at the Universalist Church Wednesday night. Ralph L. Wiggin, chairman, will have the following assistant housekeepers: Edward R. Veazie, Harry M. Pratt, Harry O. Gurdy, Eugene E. Stoddard, Edward F. Glover, Henry H. Payson, Frank M. Tibbetts, Albert C. McLoon, J. Albert Jameson, Arthur P. Haines, Luke S. Davis, J. Fred Knight, George B. Wood, S. P. Copeland, Harold P. Blodgett, Ralph Calderwood, Arthur H. Robinson and Seabrook W. Gregory.

Capt. Harry Conary of Blue Hill Falls is in Rockland for several days visit with friends.

A turkey supper will be held in Legion hall Tuesday night for endowed men and petty officers of the Coast Guard and Navy Base, members of the Draft Board, and other guests. There will be music by the Rockland Band and a two-hour entertainment by boys from the Coast Guard and Naval Base. Herbert R. Mullin is general chairman of the committee.

News has been received here of the death at Humosa Beach, Calif., of Mrs. Kate Benner, formerly of this city. Mrs. Benner was the widow of the late Leroy M. Benner of Rockland and was a native of Camden—nee Kate Webster. She is survived by one son, Fred, who is soon to enter the service.

Anderson Camp Auxiliary, Sons of Union Veterans, met Wednesday night. Officers were nominated and the election will be Dec. 16. Mrs. Mae Cross was supper chairman.

The Central Maine Power Company yesterday elected George S. Williams as vice president, and general manager. Among the new directors is Morris B. Perry of Rockland.

Miss Priscilla Brazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Brazier of 144 Camden street, who is a Senior at Endicott, a Junior College on the North Shore of Massachusetts at Pride's Crossing, will be among the group of students of the Endicott Choral Club, who will broadcast Friday, Dec. 4, at 3:45 on WHDH. Miss Brazier is also a member of the Endicott Triple Trio. The club is under direction of Mrs. Margaret Milles Henry.

Invitations have been received in Rockland to "A Private View of The Poetry Workshop Anthology," Copley Society Gallery, 296 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, for Monday, December 14. Tea 3 to 6.

Senior World Wide Guild will hold a public initiation in the auditorium of the Littlefield Memorial Baptist Church Monday night at 7:30. Those to be initiated are the junior group of the Littlefield Church and girls from Camden and Rockport. Mrs. A. Frank Ufford of New York City, a missionary to China, will be guest speaker. Mrs. Millard W. Hart of Rockland, Lincoln Association Secretary for the Guild, will preside. Miss Shirleen McKinney will play selections on the violin. Groups of young ladies from Thomaston, Warren and Tenant's Harbor are invited to attend the ceremony.

Give Magazines, special Christmas prices, any magazine published. Send for price list. Fred E. Harden, the Magazine Man, Rockland, Me. Tel. 35-W—adv.

A circle supper was held at the Pratt Memorial Methodist Church Wednesday night, following which a program was presented. Mrs. Francis E. Whiting, pianist, played two numbers: Hunting Song by Mendelssohn and Jesus, Lover of My Soul. Rev. Mr. Whiting, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church, was guest speaker, his subject being, "Personal Religious Living." Fifteen members of the U. S. Coast Guard were present as guests.

Brownie Scout Troop of Girl Scouts have started rehearsals for a Christmas play, "The Grumpy Santa Claus." This will be produced for the benefit of American Red Cross and held Dec. 22 at 2 p. m., in the auditorium at Community Building. Besides the play, a Christmas program will be presented. Leaders are Mrs. W. Seymour Cameron and Mrs. Austin Nelson.

Band Mothers' Club will meet at Rockland High School Monday night at 7:30. Change in time and place should be noted.

Richard F. Burgess of Camden, son of Dr. and Mrs. James F. Burgess will leave tomorrow for New York, where he plans to re-enter merchant marine service. Mr. Burgess, who has been off the high seas eight years, was a member of the crews of steamers of the United States and Export Lines, and made trips to England, Ireland, North Africa, the Mediterranean and Black Seas. He was employed four years on the Yacht Korana, owned by Edward K. Leighton. He has been employed several years as chauffeur for Miss Porter, Camden.

Mrs. E. L. Thompson, 67, of Boston, who has been staying at the Narragansett Hotel several days, made a mis-step from a slightly elevated platform in a Main street store yesterday, falling to the floor. She was taken in a taxi to Knox Hospital and is under the care of Dr. Robert L. Allen, who reported that Mrs. Thompson suffered a fractured hip.

Alonzo J. Spaulding of Thomaston, well known proprietor of a metal working shop on the upper floor of the Main Street Hardware building, is a surgical patient at Knox Hospital. His condition is reported fair this morning.

Members of Knox County Dental Club met Wednesday night for a supper meeting at the Hotel Rockland. Sidney Cain of Chicago was guest speaker, his topic being, Pathological Conditions of the Month. Colored motion pictures were shown. William Merriam of Portland was guest of the club.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

BY John Barclay
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Quick Heating Required in the Morning

If there is any time when you want the house to warm up quickly, it is on cold mornings. Here are some suggestions that will help you to bring heat through your house quickly.

First of all, shake the grates gently and only until you see the first red glow.

Next, open the check damper and add a small amount of coal at a time. Then when the fire gets going again, shake the grates gently and add a full charge of coal.

Allow the fire to burn off, then close the check damper and open the check damper. In this way you will save a lot of coal—and many trips to the cellar.

The National Grange Adopts a Program For Agriculture At Its Annual Session

The 76th annual session of the National Grange, just closed at Wenatchee, Washington, was one of the most outstanding gatherings of farm people ever held in the United States. With 37 States answering the roll call, the nine days' convention attended closely to business, with three daily sessions and with strong, clear-cut declarations on many important national questions, especially those relating to agriculture and to the welfare of the rural people.

Above everything else, the National Grange stressed the supreme task of the hour as winning the war and in behalf of the farmers of the nation pledged maximum efforts toward that end. Declaring that a 100 per cent endeavor would be made to meet whatever food production goals may be set up, the Grange vigorously reiterated its program adopted at the session at Worcester, Mass., one year ago, relative to a living price for those expected to produce the food and fiber so essential in winning the war. The session solemnly warned of the danger of a food shortage next year, unless sufficient farm labor and equipment can be assured to accomplish the tremendous task now facing America's food producers. The Wenatchee declarations are concisely summarized as follows:—

Platform For Agriculture

1. Winning the war is our supreme task and to this accomplishment the Grange pledges its maximum resources, both as an organization and through the individual efforts of its entire membership.

2. The attainment of this goal requires immediate action to assure farmers man power, machinery and supplies, with prices for food produced that will give farmers a reasonable financial return for their toil, compared with like effort in other essential industries.

3. If necessary, in winning the war, the Grange favors universal service, provided such a program comprises property, all branches of industry, capital and labor; but with assurance of its termination when hostilities cease.

4. The Grange approves the Selective Service plan to defer essential farm workers on dairy, livestock and poultry farms, but urges its extension to other types of farming.

5. A sure way to create a food shortage will be to continue forcing farmers to work longer hours and for lower comparative income than those engaged in other lines of industry. Fair prices to food producers will stimulate adequate production, be a safeguard against inflation and furnish protection to consumers.

6. The Grange reiterates its oft-repeated declaration of the past quarter century concerning farm parity, now so well expressed in the words of President Roosevelt as, "Prices which give the farmer equality of purchasing power with fellow Americans who work in industry," and demands immediate revision of the parity formula to include:—

(a) All farm labor in figuring cost of production.

(b) Making use of present price levels, instead of those based on conditions of thirty years ago.

7. Inasmuch as ceilings which reduce agricultural prices below cost levels will certainly result in curtailing production, food shortages and higher prices to consumers, price ceilings on food crops must be flexible.

8. Efficient transportation is so essential to support of the war effort and the preservation of the nation's economic life, that necessary allocation of materials should be made to permit all forms of transportation to perform their required functions to maximum degree. No unnecessary restrictions should be imposed and a definite rubber program should be developed at once, including the manufacture of synthetic rubber, by whatever process is deemed most effective.

9. It is imperative that floors under der farm prices shall be established, to prevent another postwar collapse and the inevitable depression that would otherwise follow.

10. In financing the war effort, the basis of taxation should be "ability to pay and benefits received," with adequate safeguard set up, as taxes amount to levels heretofore unknown, by the application of these taxation principles:

(a) All taxes imposed for specific war purposes should be strictly self-repaying.

(b) Every tax loophole should be plugged, with the guarantee that burdens do not rest unjustly upon small incomes; and with a pay-as-you-go policy developed as rapidly as conditions will permit.

(c) Nonessential expenditures must be reduced to the minimum; unneeded man power in governmental agencies should be immediately released; governmental agencies created to meet specific needs should be abolished when those needs no longer exist.

(d) Limited deductions should be allowed for purchases of war bonds, and to pay for insurance and other obligations contracted prior to September 1, 1942.

11. Farm subsidies as a substitute for fair prices are wrong in principle and deceptive in operation because

(a) They conceal costs and delay or defeat efforts to correct excessive expenditures.

Gerald Rose, principal of the High School, spent the holiday with relatives in Brunswick.

The Red Cross committee on the Christmas boxes for local boys in service in this country is sending out an urgent call for more money as there are 15 more boxes to be packed, and money is needed for cigarettes, candy bars, gum, etc., to fill them. Every citizen of the town will want to help in this worthy cause and if you have not already donated, please see that your contribution is given at once to one of the committee, Mrs. Amy Miller, Mrs. Wilma Rhodes or Mrs. Evelyn Cunningham.

Mrs. Frederick Richards went Wednesday to New York City where she will join her husband, Lt. Com. Richards, who is teaching at Columbia University.

Mrs. Orra Burns is a patient at Community Hospital, where Monday she underwent a surgical operation.

That the townspeople might fully understand what is required under the new dim-out regulations, a meeting of all interested citizens was called for Tuesday night at Town hall by co-ordinator Arthur K. Walker, and a large number responded. Chief Air Raid Warden Earle Achorn presided and explained the regulations as they affect homes, business places, automobiles, etc. Mr. Walker also offered helpful remarks. At the close Mr. Achorn announced that there would be a meeting of the Fire Wardens, Fire Watchers, and messengers at the Control Center Friday at 7 o'clock and on Saturday night they would tour the town to note any violations of the dim-out regulations.

Due to weather conditions all school sessions were omitted Wednesday.

The Methodist Junior Ladies Aid met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Crockett.

Mrs. Eugenia Pales returned Tuesday from Knox Hospital where she had been under observation the past week, as a result of a fall in her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carroll have closed their home on Richards Hill and are staying at the home of his father, Albert Carroll for the winter. Their nephew, Gerald Richards, is with them while his mother, Mrs. Frederick Richards is in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Joyce moved Tuesday to the Hartford house which they recently bought on Pascal avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Spear left Tuesday for Lakeland, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joyce, who have been occupying the J. W. Pottle house for several weeks, have returned to Swan's Island.

Mrs. Nancy Turner, who has been visiting her son and daughter-in-law in Bucksport, has returned home.

"The Prophet's Part in Making Possible the Coming of the Christ" is the theme for the morning service Sunday at the Methodist Church. The pastor will speak at the evening service on "When Perplexed God Can Show the Way." The Sunday School is held at 10 o'clock, one hour before the morning service and will be of interest to all. One week from next Sunday there will be a set of beautiful pictures on the life of Christ and three sets of illustrated hymns. All are urged to be present at this service.

Mrs. Hattie Kenney has returned from Brunswick where she has been visiting her son, Vernon Kenney.

Large assortment of new gifts for servicemen has just been received at Gregory's. 110-11

Finds Out From Uncle Eph How Tracks Were Made On Hewett's Island

(By Tree Member)

Had to make another trip to Bangor recently and found time to dodge into WABI and go on the ether for 15 minutes. It has been nine years since I faced a "Mike" but I had no trouble and a good time. "Rae of Belfast" happened to be in Bangor and she gave a short reading and warbled a duet with Betty Gaye. Betty put over a couple of songs in fine style. All old free did was to tell a story and drum out the accompaniments for the singers. The piano was in good tune and I had a pretty nice time all around.

Lest someone may get the idea that Tree is lavish with gas I should, perhaps explain that the many trips I have made to Bangor the past several months were far from pleasure trips. Hospital treatments, Doctors orders, no gas wasted; have none to waste! Had to get a unit (my last!) in Bangor and the young chap who tended the gas pump lamented that he couldn't join up and fight for Uncle Sam. When he was examined they discovered that the lad had only one lung. Felt awfully broken up about it—said he would prefer two lungs and a chance to help lick the germs and beetles.

However, old people and crippled youngsters can do their bit on the home front! (Dig hard for scrap, save very drop of grease possible, invest every dollar possible in war stamps and (or) bonds, conserve rubber and gas—don't wag the tongue too much. We can all have fun again after this war is won!)

When I was about 66 to 68 years younger, than I am now, I heard "Oat" Day, Deck Meservey, Ambury Orne and my Dad talking about "man's tracks" in the solid rock on Hewett's Island. They asseverated that such tracks were plain to see and they argued and wondered how said tracks could have been made. "Oat" said he had thought about it a lot and had come to the conclusion that many years ago, perhaps a million or so years, the rock was very soft and that a race of giants lived in this part of the world and that one of them had walked on that soft rock and weighed a ton or more and his great weight had forced his feet into the rock and that the rock hardened after many years and left his tracks in the rock for all time. I thought that was a very reasonable explanation until I heard Uncle Eph's version of the why and wherefore of those tracks.

Eph was in Fred's store one night when the subject of the tracks was being discussed. When someone quoted "Oat" Day on the subject Eph snorted like a horse with hay fever, pocketed his knife, threw his pine stick in the cracker barrel, snorted and stomped his way out of the store.

"Now, what th' Blue-Jay-with-his-tail-feathers 'wagging teched ole Eph off like that?" said one of the men. "Never know when Eph will fly off th' handle, but it's easy enough to tell when he does, an' if I know Eph, he's madder'n a hornet just now!" "Tell ye what I'll bet" said Fred. "I'll bet ye he'll be in here some night purty soon and have a good yarn all rigged up about them tracks." And so it came to pass.

The very next night Eph came into the store with his "I've got a good yarn fer ye ferntite, boys" expression on his face, sat down, lit his corncob pipe, crossed his skinny old legs and—waited. The store gang exchanged sly glances (they knew the symptoms and just what to do and say to get Eph started) and pretty soon one of them cleared his throat and said, "Now, what were we talkin' about? Oh, yes, them tracks on Hewett's Island!"

Eph slowly removed his pipe from his whiskers, fixed the crowd with a baleful eye and said, very slow and distinct like, "Boys, yer all wrong erbout them tracks! I'm th' on'y wun th' knows th' seerit er them tracks 'cos I made 'em!" "Haw, haw" scoffed the boys, "them tracks was made by a giant, not a skinny old fossil like you, Haw, haw, haw!" Eph's whiskers began to waggle like they always did when Eph was mad and the boys sat back and listened to Eph as he unfolded the "seerit" of the tracks. "Way back afore ye be's was born they were erbout a millyun cords off kil wood on Huits Island enuf o' here fer kepe th' kil's goin. It was a pretty tuf job but I done it. I'd go over an' cut a thousand cords an' then go git it with th' old slupe I used ter hev. By stackin it blow deks an' plint it erbout 30 ft. high all over th' deik I cud git th' thousand cord over here in two trips.

I alius made th' slupe fast, rite side up a big rock on th' shore, an' run a plank frim th' rock fer th'

MAINE IN WASHINGTON

(From the office of Senator Ralph O. Brewster)

As the thermometer goes down in Maine and elsewhere in New England the temperature of New England continues to rise at the various suggestions that New England may be frozen out in the hurly-burly incident to the war. The New England Governors recently indicated very great concern following the repeated manifestations of anxiety of members of the Maine Congressional delegation throughout the past year as to the fuel situation.

Members of the Senate and the House from New England have been called in a meeting this week to consider together concerted measures to insure equitable treatment for New England. Meanwhile this past week Secretary Ickes as Fuel Co-ordinator handling both coal and fuel oil testified before the Truman Committee and assured Senator Brewster that fuel resources at present in the New England area were 75 percent of normal which is 1 percent above the figure they had been aiming at, and further indicated complete confidence that these supplies would be maintained at this figure.

Seventy-five percent of normal requirements has been the goal of the Fuel Administration and Secretary Ickes felt confident that supplies of this amount would continue to be delivered.

The Maine Congressional delegation will be glad to be advised from any section of the State where it has not been found possible to maintain a quota of 75 percent of normal deliveries. Information of this character is the only way in which specific situations can be helped out.

Dehydrated Baked Beans

New England baked beans are going to continue a part of the diet of the boys overseas although in powdered form with the water content removed which constitutes two-thirds of their bulk. This means that three times as many beans can be put in the same shipping space. Yellow-eye beans from Maine also participate as a result of the long battle which finally resulted in recognizing yellow-eye beans as proper for baking. This was apparently a revelation to all the other sections of the country where they were familiar only with the other types of beans for baking.

When the boys overseas get ready for their Saturday night supslupe dek. Then I tuk mer big whele barrer an' wheled th' wood erbord an' plid it up. It wuz hard work but I wuz tuf an' smart ez a stele trap in them daze an' cud git in tu trips 'tween sun up an' dark. Wal, wun day I hed trubled gittin started an' I seen I cudn't git mer wood abord 'fore th' tide went out 'less I done some tal whele an' I begun ter load hevny an' work fast. The tide wuz gittin purty low 'fore I gut mer last load—an' it wuz th' biggest w' eny I had wheled. Must've been high onter ten tun, then load! Wal, I made fast time but th' whele barrer kreeked sumpin orful an' th' load wuz so hevty th' mer fete wuz driv infer th' solid rock nigh onter six inches. I gut ter last load abord jist in time ter shov off 'fore th' slupe gut stuck in th' mud! Thet's how them tracks cum ter be made on Huits Island, by crummy!"

Eph was, as usual, pretty near the door when he finished his yarn and when one of the boys said, "How could you wheel such a load as that without breaking the wheel of your barrow, or breaking the plank between the rock and the sloop?" Eph just glared, wagged his whiskers and slammed the door as he went into the night but his wife told one of the boys that Eph was chuckling something scandalous when he got home that night.

per of baked beans all it is necessary for the cook to do is to add water to the powder and presto the beans are there. Four ounces of the dehydrated baked beans are equal to twelve ounces of regularly cooked beans. They are baked before being dehydrated. The Army Quartermaster Corps has also developed a prune powder, an apricot powder and a Swiss cheese soup composed of potatoes, dry powdered milk, oat and soya flours in addition to the cheese with flavoring ingredients of onion, celery and parsley salts. This powdered soup is all cooked ready to serve simply by the addition of water.

Army's New Butter Product

A new type food product known as Army Spread and intended for soldiers in tropical stations has been developed by the Quartermaster Corps. Army Spread is a combination of creamy butter, fresh cheese curd, and skim milk powder. The butter-fat content of the new canned "butter" is not less than 66%. It will not melt, when in containers, below a temperature of 120 degrees Fahrenheit, whereas an earlier butter substitute issued to the Army, known as Carter Spread melted at 110 degrees. Both Army Spread and Carter Spread are products of the Quartermaster Subsistence Laboratory, Chicago.

Dehydrated Potatoes

The story of dehydrated potatoes has already been told in this column and constantly increasing production is under way. This potato product is proving a most satisfactory method of transporting one of the staple articles of diet. It seems altogether likely that dehydrated potatoes will come to fill a definite part in the diet of Americans in years to come because of the simplicity of handling—both in transporting and preserving and also in preparing for the table. A very fine quality of mashed potatoes can be produced in two or three minutes by the addition of water.

What You Buy With WAR STAMPS

An essential part of the equipment of the Army and the Marine Corps is the shelter, or "pup" tent. These small and easy-to-handle tents are used in training, on field maneuvers and on short marches. Our ever-increasing army needs thousands of them and only $10 of your money in War Savings Stamps will buy one.

The help of Young America in financing the war effort is being encouraged by the Treasury Department in its sponsorship of the Schools At War Program. As a symbol of this program the Treasury will present each state with a 206-year-old brick from Independence Hall, obtained during extensive repair work on that shrine of our nation's freedom. These Liberty Bricks, as they are called, will furnish a permanent exhibit in each state after they return from a tour of the schools. Each school will also receive a certificate of service from the Treasury.

Miss Nichols' Paper On Ghosts Had the Members a-Tremble

The fifth meeting of the Shakespeare Society was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. A. Walker. The leader of the program was Mrs. G. M. Derry, who presented a synopsis of Act V of "Macbeth."

A splendid paper on "Ghosts" written by Miss Relief Nichols and read by Mrs. J. Pomeroy, was much enjoyed. Miss Nichols dealt with the subject in a most interesting manner, sharing much time and thought given to its preparation.

After the reading of the Act an open forum was conducted by Mrs. Derry, in which many interesting criticisms were given by the members. Those reading the parts were, Miss Ellen Cochran, Mrs. K. Rice, Miss Alice Erskine, Mrs. H. Bird, Mrs. R. Smith, Mrs. G. Derry, Mrs. J. A. Jameson, Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mrs. J. Pomeroy, Mrs. D. Beach.

Mrs. Walker read a comment by Alfred Van R. Westfall on whether the idea of killing Duncan originated with Macbeth or whether Lady Macbeth taunted him into doing so. A quiz was conducted by Mrs. Walker on the play.

The next meeting is to be with Mrs. Harriet Frost, Dec. 12. Mrs. C. Coughlin will be leader in Act I, Scene 1 of "Much Ado About Nothing" with a paper by Mrs. H. Bird on "Sources of the Plot" and Mrs. Wesley Wasgatt will present a paper on "Fairie Queen" by Spencer.

Theodore E. Cooper

Theodore E. Cooper died at his home Nov. 24, as a result of burns sustained by falling on the kitchen stove.

Mr. Cooper was born in this town Sept. 20, 1855, son of Capt. Joseph and Melvina Dyer Cooper. When he was four-years old his father was lost at sea on the "Black Hawk." Mr. Cooper has been a sea faring man all of his life until retirement a few years ago. He has been holder of the Boston Post Cane since July.

He was a man of quiet disposition and stirring qualities. In early life he was married to Mary Calderwood, and of this union one child was born.

Funeral services were held Friday at the church, Rev. Mr. Johnson officiating. Those from out of town to attend the services were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard of Portland. Bearers were Zenas Burgess, Lester Greenlaw, Ernest Demmons, and Elmer Carver. Interment was in the Crabtree Cemetery.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harry Whitmore, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Fred Howard, both of Portland.

Human felicity is produced not so much by great pieces of good fortune that seldom happen, as by little advantages that occur every day.

This And That

By K. S. F.

Thomas Jefferson, who has been justly termed our first great American Democrat, said, "Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Thomas Jefferson also said in substance, newspapers should arrange the news they print in four categories:

News that is true;
News that is probably true;
News that is suspiciously true and damn lies.

I believe the readers of our daily papers would heartily endorse such a sorting out of the news, for then every reader would be enabled to select only those items that are factually true.

From State Chat:

"A lone flyer from the far north made a crash landing in Ellsworth last week. One wing was broken. The bird, a Dovekie, landed in the yard of Ralph Jordan. The Dovekie, a small member of the auk family, spends the Summer far within the Arctic circle, where the female lays a single egg on the bare rock of a cliff jutting over the sea, whence the young bird and the old may drop to the water. In Winter the Dovekie seeks the "balmy" breezes off the New England coast and occasionally as far south as Long Island, N. Y. Its black and white over all uniform, more like close-woven wool than feathers, is impervious to wind and water. But the Dovekie is strictly a sea bird, and is an expert swimmer and diver. When found inland, it is always a tragedy for the bird, for if not injured in landing, it is stranded. It cannot take wing from land. The Dovekie found here was blown in by a southern gale. A few years ago a Dovekie was found at East Surry, uninjured. Kept for a few days, it was taken to the shore and released, and went off happy and with a strange story to tell its mate."

Barney, the junior partner, burst into the senior partner's room and banged angrily on the desk.

"Our showman manager has gone raving mad," he cried. "We must dismiss him at once."

"Calm yourself," said the senior partner. "What's happened?"

"He has put on the showman window a testimonial praising our typewriters, and it's written with a fountain-pen," Barney explained.

Let me assure you that the British government is as alive to the need for pressing forward with offensive action as any one of you.

—Sir Stafford Cripps.

Here is what Czar Henderson wrote:

"It's not necessary for you, or your brother, or anyone else, to give up the use of sugar. There is enough sugar for all of us if it is shared properly. A proper amount of sugar in our diets is a nutritional necessity, and we must keep ourselves physically fit to win the war."

He's right, you know: "The half-pound per week allowance was fixed as the amount which would care adequately, but without waste, for the human body's sugar-requirement. It should be used."

Stop! Stop for breakfast. Why the rush? A sip of orange juice, a swallow of coffee—bang! goes the door. Where are you rushing—out heading into digestive upsets, to vague aches, to a temper? Take time to eat a sufficient well balanced meal and start the day in good spirits. Fuel for the engine means better morning work, work done more easily.

Someone has said with wisdom these words:

"What I would like to do is to speak on reading as an aid to the deepening and developing of the spiritual life. I would include, therefore, among the books to be read by people who want to grow, spiritually, the great novels, poems, essays, etc., not specifically religious in tone, but giving a deep-hearted and true interpretation of the complexity of human life."

MARJORIE MILLS BROADCAST

Monday through Friday at 1.30 P. M., over Stations WNAC, Boston; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland; WICC, Bridgeport; WTIC, Hartford; WEAN, Providence; WLWZ, Bangor.

With Christmas just ahead of us and the need we all have for using our food budgets wisely including the sugar ration, some of the free helps the sponsors have for you would seem most important. At any rate we'd love to send them to you if you'll ask for them. There's the Bre'r Rabbit recipe book—a big illustrated book with 116 fine molasses recipes. There's the trio of Ward's recipe helps, the gay Cake Parade booklet, the folder of Marjorie Mills special recipes for using Ward's Tip Top Bread and "What to Eat in Wartime." There's the handy Nestle folder of Lunch Box recipes . . . grand ones all and the kind that make baking a pleasure. And the Ceresota enriched flour recipes to help you save sugar. This is the last call on the Ceresota recipes . . . and we can send them to you faster if you'll send a self addressed stamped envelope along. You'll get plenty of ideas from the free Kyanize book of color: "Bring Your Bright Ideas to Life" and we'd like to send that too.

Address Marjorie Mills, New England Network, Boston or your own station for these books.

Now for the Sterling Salt offer. Send now, your time, plus a bit of paper from the pouring spout of a box of Sterling Salt and get your dozen Christmas cards complete with envelopes. Sterling Salt wants to send you. The cards are lovely and will speed your happy thoughts for Christmas beautifully. Be sure we have your name and address and send for these cards to the same address given above.

Codfish Potato Puff—6 potatoes, medium-sized, 1 egg, 4 tablespoons flour (enriched Ceresota flour), 1½ cups flaked salt codfish, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, Few grains pepper, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour (enriched Ceresota flour), 1½ cups milk.

Cook the potatoes in boiling salted water, drain well and mash until free from lumps. Add the well beaten egg and flour and beat until fluffy. Freshen the codfish by covering with cold water and bring to a boil. Repeat. Line a 1½ quart buttered casserole with potatoes, reserving 2-3 cup. Melt the butter, add the flour, and stir until well blended. Add the milk slowly, stirring constantly and bring to a boil. Add the codfish and the chopped parsley, also the pepper. Pour the creamed codfish in the center of the casserole and top with spoonfuls of reserved mashed potatoes. Bake in hot oven 400 F. for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Scalloped Scallops—1 pint scallops, 1-3 cup butter, 1 cup cracker crumbs or Ward's bread crumbs, 1 1-3 cups medium cream, Salt and pepper.

Wash and pick over the scallops, melt the butter and add the crumbs, tossing them lightly with a fork. Put a layer of these crumbs in individual ramekins, cover with five or six scallops and then a few spoonfuls of cream. The mixture should be rather moist. Bake about 20 minutes in a 350 F. oven. This will fill six to seven ramekins, depending upon their size.

Vicky Crane's Applesauce Cake—1 cup sugar, ¼ cup shortening or Allsweet margarine, 1 cup applesauce, 1 teaspoon baking soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons water, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon clove, ¼ teaspoon salt (Sterling), ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 egg, 1 cup raisins, 1½ cups enriched Ceresota flour.

Cream the sugar and add the shortening. Add the applesauce and well beaten egg. Add the baking soda which has been dissolved. Sift the dry ingredients and add to the mixture. Fold in the raisins. Bake in moderate oven 350 F. for one hour.

Kedgeree—2 pounds haddock, 1 cup cooked rice, ½ cup mashed potatoes, 1 onion, chopped, 4 hard boiled eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, melted, 4 whole cloves, 4 bay leaves, Sterling salt and pepper. Parsley.

Put the fish in four pieces, cover with boiling water and add salt and pepper, onions, cloves, and bay leaves. Simmer until it is done. In another dish combine the rice, potatoes, melted butter and 2 of the eggs coarsely chopped. Add the cooked fish and onions moistened with the liquor in which the fish was cooked and bake in 10 minutes in hot oven 400 F. Serve garnished with parsley and other eggs sliced.

RECALLING LIFE'S CHAPTERS

Being In the Nature Of a Biography of Commander G. H. Reed, D. C., U. S. N.,
Written By Himself

(Tenth Installment)

The United States Navy in 1914 was a complacent establishment of impressive latent power which took a vast pride in hearing itself referred to as The Silent Service. Its personnel had a proper respect for the noble traditions of the sea and a due regard for "customs of the service." It was an organization which affected to deplore publicity and despise "Coburgers" and "politicians."

There were no airplane carriers then, and the Navy wasn't sure it needed any. Submarines were experimental boats; battleships and cruisers burned coal instead of oil and their tenders were steamers, motor-sailers and pulling boats. The dirty work of carrying coal was left to colliers with officers and crews from the Naval Auxiliary Service. Ships were painted a cheerful gray; swords were part of the uniform and a routine born of long years of peace stressed discipline, formality, glittering brass-work and all the gold braided panoply of military might.

The Fleet based on the East coast and spent its Winters in the Caribbean operating on a schedule of maneuvers which generally brought it into Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, every Friday night. Recruiting posters which read, "Join the Navy and see the World," were considered highly imaginative by the enlisted men who saw Camliners, Old Point Comfort and Lynnhaven Bay often enough, but who thought the world was larger. Ships came North in the Summer and talk in the Navy Yards at Boston, New York and Norfolk, was of the Philippines, China, and possible war with Japan sometime in the distant future.

The grim ugly business of depth bombs, dive bombers, long ranging submarines hunting in packs, surprise attacks before war had been declared, machine gunning of defenseless boat crews, etc., were refinements in total destruction yet to be arrived at. War was still fought—or supposed to be fought—according to rules, and fighters were gentlemen with respect for a valiant foe.

No one could have accused the Navy in those days of being peace minded, but the prospect of war seemed remote. Admirals and captains looked forward apparently to peaceful retirement full of honor and dignity and punier officers were impatient for the day when they would command ships like their seniors. Navy yards and stations were on the whole, peaceful places in which to do a trick ashore and service life was orderly as well arranged. The Navy was clanish and aloof in its civilian contacts too, and quite sufficient unto itself.

Into this atmosphere I came, wide eyed and impressionable, when I reported for my first duty to Capt. W. R. Rush of the Boston Navy Yard, Sept. 24, 1914—as fresh a sardine as ever the Navy netted. My contacts with my shipmates began in the ward room of the old U.S.S. Brooklyn, then serving as receiving ship at the Boston Yard. There I listened to tales of the relief of Pekin, the trip of the floating dry dock, Dewey, across the Pacific to Olongapo in the Philippines. The cruise of the White Squadron around the world was too recent to have been forgotten, and officers returning from Asiatic duty were full of talk about the Yangtze Patrol. Promotion was slow then, living costs were rising and malcontents—who were perfectly satisfied and wouldn't admit it—were sounding off about stagnation.

Stoddard-Sterling

Wedding bells rang out at historical Portland Head Light, Thanksgiving Day at the home of Robert Thayer Sterling and Mrs. Sterling when their niece, Miss C. Elizabeth Sterling of Torrington Point, Peaks Island and E. C. Stoddard, Portland and Peaks Island were united in marriage by Rev. Harry Whiteley of the Brackett Memorial Church, Peaks Island.

The bride was very attractive in a gown of light blue crepe with brown accessories and corsage of gardenias. Miss Sterling was attended by her sister as maid of honor also wearing blue crepe and a corsage of pink roses. Fred A. Sterling, brother of the bride was best man.

The ceremony which took place at 11 a. m. in the presence of the immediate families and Portland Head staff, was followed by a family holiday dinner party. Decorations were cut flowers.

The newlyweds' get-away was seemingly unclouded as F. O. Hilt whisked them to Union Station, just in time for the train to Boston; but they were confronted by the younger set in the party and generously showered with confetti.

Mrs. Stoddard wore a beige coat with brown fur accessories for traveling. All hands are wishing the couple a long and happy wedding life.

Returning from a wedding trip, they will reside at Torrington Point, Peaks Island.

CLARK ISLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Putansu and children of Kittery are occupying a house owned by Richard Richards.

The storm wrought great damage here, blowing down several trees and electric wires.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Moody of Camden visited Thanksgiving Day with Mrs. Moody's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cromwell.

Mrs. Victor Blomberg visited Thanksgiving with her daughters, Mrs. Albert Wood of Quincy, Mass., and Mrs. Helen Magnuson of Hingham, Mass. She was accompanied home by her son, Victor Blomberg, U.S.N.R.

Mrs. Frank Johnson is visiting her daughters, Mrs. Herbert Lewis and Miss Shirley Johnson of Braintree, Mass.

SPRUCE HEAD

Mrs. Fred C. Batty, Sr., has returned from a short visit with her daughter, Mrs. Irving McLeod in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Elwell were business visitors Wednesday in Rockland.

Fred C. Batty spent a recent liberty with his family, returning Thursday to Two Bush Light Station.

Everett (Ted) Elwell returned Thursday to Seymour Johnson field after spending ten days' furlough with his family. Before leaving he received a gift of money from friends here.

Thurston Batty, Sr. has returned to his duties at Boothbay Harbor after enjoying Thanksgiving at the home of his brother, Fred Batty, Jr., at Waterman's Beach.

Edgar F. Post, Coast Guard, Sr. shot a four-point buck Monday. He was on five days' leave and returned Monday to the base in Boston.

Sunday school reopened Nov. 22 with these officers: Superintendent, Mrs. Margaret Elwell; assistant superintendent and organist, Mrs. Eva Post; secretary, Ruth Elwell; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Elwell; librarian, Irene Barnes.

CHURCHES

SERMONETTE

Interdenominational Commission

IV.

At the last meeting E. A. Norman represented the Swedish Covenant. I was much intrigued by him and his remark. At my request, he sent me these facts. As he had for the first time seen the Commission at work; so some learned of this new force in the religious life of the United States from him.

In February 1935 representatives of 46 Swedish Mission Churches met in Chicago and formed an organization known as the Evangelical Mission Covenant Church of America, to bring the Gospel to the Swedish people in America. Today, a little over half a century later, the Covenant consists of 450 churches in 13 Conferences with a church membership of 46,000 and a Sunday School enrollment exceeding 60,000.

The Mission Covenant maintains foreign missions on three continents. In Alaska their endeavors began in 1887; in China in 1890, where the working force consists of 35 missionaries. In Africa is their largest Covenant Church of 2500 members. Their Home Mission program is active in the United States and Canada. Mr. Norman's work is in the rural section of Maine untouched by other bodies.

Their Covenant certainly must meet the approval of all Baptists and was generally approved by the other faiths present. It consists of: No specific creed; the Bible as the only rule of faith and conduct; supreme authority of the Scriptures; necessity of spiritual life, and the essential unity of all believers; the urge of the covenant; the church insists on the basis of the New Testament and only those are eligible for active membership who have had a definite experience of regeneration; and who live a consistent Christian life.

God bless Mr. Norman in his work among the lumber jacks of Northern Maine.

These little articles are glimpses into the work of the Interdenominational Commission of Maine. May they abide in your memory and be remembered in your prayers.

William A. Holman

"God the only cause and creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon that will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Dec. 6. The Golden Text is: "All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and deed wondrous things; thou art God alone" (Psalms 86:9-10). The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded" (Isaiah 44:6 and 45:12).

Services at the United Episcopal Parish of Saints Peter, John and George, Rev. E. O. Kenyon, rector for the Second Sunday in Advent: At St. Peter—Holy Eucharist and sermon at 9 a. m.; Church School at 10:30; Daily Mass at 7:30 except Monday and Saturday. At St. John's, Thomaston—Church school at 5:30 p. m.; Vespers at 7 p. m. At St. George's, Long Cove—Vespers and sermon at 4 p. m.

"The Dawn of Sympathy" will be the subject of the Sunday morning sermon at 10:30 by Rev. Roy A. Welker, minister of the Congregational Church, in the second of an Advent series. The Church School meets at 10 a. m., the whole school joining with the congregation in the service of worship. The Comrades of The Way will hold a supper meeting at 6:00 p. m. in the vestry, followed by a formal meeting. The Comrades will have invited guests.

The First Baptist Church, together with thousands of other churches in the Northern Baptist Convention, will observe the coming Lord's Day as the Sunday of Sacrifice. On this day Northern Baptists hope to realize an offering of $600,000 for world relief. This special service will conclude the World Emergency Fund drive which began the first Sunday of October. The Lord's Supper will be observed and the communion sermon, in keeping with the special service, is titled "Sacrifice and Song." Church school will open at noon. The Berean Society, with Mrs. J. Charles MacDonald as leader, will meet at 6 o'clock. Christian Endeavor Society meets at the same hour. The evening service of worship begins at 7:05 with an organ recital. Mr. MacDonald's evening sermon will be on "True and False Investments."

At Pratt Methodist Church the Lord's Supper will be observed at 10:45 a. m. The Church School will meet at noon. At 6 p. m. the Youth Fellowship will meet. The pastor, Rev. A. C. Hempstead, will preach at the evening worship, 7 o'clock.

"Preparation for His Advent," will be the subject of the sermon by Rev. C. A. Marsteller, at Littlefield Memorial Baptist Church

Sunday at 10:30. Special music will be provided. Sunday School follows at 11:45 with classes for all ages. The two Young People's meetings are at 6 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Marsteller as leader of the senior group with a radio service, and Athlene Moore will lead the Juniors. This being Sunday of sacrifice, the pastor will use as his theme at 7:15, "His Sacrifice and Ours." Special music will include a solo by Miss Lucy Munro, and Communion will be observed. Public initiation of World Wide Guild, Monday night at 7:30. All churches in the association are invited. Mid-week prayer and praise service Tuesday night at 7:30. The Ladies' Aid meets with Mrs. Alice Knight on Maverick street, Wednesday night.

"A Gentleman's Contract with Life" is the subject of Dr. Lowe's sermon at the Universalist Church 10:40, soloist Miss Lotte McLaughlin. The Church School will meet with the adult congregation for worship and children's story. Nursery department for younger children whose parents wish to attend church. Y.P.C.U. Youth Fellowship meeting in the vestry 7 p. m.

At the Nazarene Church, Maverick Square, services Sunday will be: Sunday School at 2 p. m., followed by afternoon worship at 3 o'clock. The evening meeting begins at 7 when Rev. Curtis Stanley from the Portland Nazarene Church will be the preacher.

WITH THE EXTENSION AGENTS AND THE KNOX-LINCOLN FARM BUREAU

Agricultural Notes

A. D. Nutting, forestry specialist of the Extension Service, will be in the district Dec. 8 and 9, to assist County Agent Wentworth in woodlot improvement work. Demonstrations will be held Tuesday afternoon at B. B. Anthony's, Bear Hill, Rockport, and in the afternoon at Donald Johnson's, Jefferson. On Wednesday work will be done in Dresden at the farm of E. W. Tyrrell-Beck. During the month of December is an ideal time to cut your next winter's supply of wood and at the same time improve your woodlot by removing the larger and poorer trees.

Meetings will be held today throughout Maine for the election of the community committee members in connection with the Agricultural Conservation Associations in each county.

Orchardists should make sure that their trees are protected from mice, for this past week County Agent Wentworth with Max Turner, Government Wild Life Agent, visited several orchards in the county and found many indications of mice. Unless trees are protected by either guards or better still poison bait, there is apt to be some loss during the Winter. The poison which is used to make the baits can be obtained from County Agent Wentworth.

The Knox County Poultry Improvement Association will meet in Camden Dec. 9. Harold Rotzel, manager of the New England Poultry and Egg Organization, will be the speaker. There will be movies of the poultry industry of New England. Harry Wolcott, Camden, president of the county organization will have charge of the meeting.

With The Homes

A new Farm Bureau group has been organized recently in Pleasantville, a section of Warren. Mrs. Walter Starrett was hostess and took charge of the meeting. Officers elected were: Chairman, Mrs. Irene Starrett; secretary and treasurer, Miss La Verne Young; home management project leader, Mrs. Bernice Davis; sewing project leader, Mrs. Annie Lehto; and foods project leader, Mrs. Ella Meservey. The rest of the afternoon was spent in looking over the gifts included in the Christmas suggestion box, and cutting patterns from them. The next meeting will be Dec. 29 at Mrs. Bernice Davis' house.

A planning meeting will be held by every Farm Bureau group sometime this month at which a program will be planned for 1943. Of course, an attempt will be made to keep the project material timely so the schedule for the latter part of the year cannot be planned now. Officers will be elected at these planning meetings to serve for 1943.

Friendship Farm Bureau will make Christmas evergreens at their meeting today.

TREES OF OUR CITIES

A heading in a Bangor daily newspaper tells the readers that those marvelous elms of that city face trouble with sure indications that gypsy moths are in the wood and will be busy next season. What would Rockland look like if she should lose her elms? They are the most beautiful feature of our city. We love them without really thinking how much they mean to us. Let us see that they are given proper care and protection from that worst of all the enemies Gypsy Moth. K. S. P.

FRIENDSHIP

Services Sunday at the Methodist Church, Rev. Walter A. Smith, pastor, will be: At 10:30, service of worship, sermon, "His Name Shall Be Called Wonderful," 11:45, Sunday School; 7:30 p. m. "The Life of Christ in Hymns, Scripture and Comment."

LONG COVE

At St. George's Church, there will be Church school Sunday at 3:30; Vespers at 4 p. m. This will be a community service.

Eagles are found in all parts of the world except the Arctic and Antarctic regions.

November Calls

Lots of 'Em Were Made By Our Diligent Health Nurse

Miss Eliza J. Steele, R. N., public health nurse of the Rockland District Nursing Association, reports that 263 calls were made in November. Calls made between July 1 and Nov. 30 totaled 1,513 more than were made during the same period in 1941.

Records show an increase in communicable and non-communicable diseases the principal increase in communicable diseases being venereal.

Dr. H. W. Frohock attended a baby clinic at which eight were inoculated for diphtheria and one was vaccinated; 256 have been skin-tested for tuberculosis at the High School.

Classification of calls made in November were: Eight prenatal, post partum, 68 non-communicable four venereal, 32 tuberculosis, 11 crippled children, six new born, infant supervision, 50 pre-school and one social service.

LINCOLNVILLE TRAGEDY

Ralph Harold Dean, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dean of Lincolnville Center was found Saturday in a well near his home. The Camden Fire Department was called and the policeman used but without results. The Belfast medical examiner pronounced death due to drowning.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Margaret and Sylvia; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dean of Lincolnville. Funeral services will be held today at 3 o'clock from the residence, Rev. H. I. Hol, officiating.

Lightkeeper Transferred

The new address of Keeper Eugene L. Coleman, formerly of Cape Neddick ("The Nubble") is: Nauset Light, Eastham, Mass. That is the locale around which "The Outermost House" is written—a most entertaining book. It has been claimed that Eastham is the most easterly point in the United States—not excepting Eastport. Certainly it is the most easterly place in Massachusetts.

This information was contained in a letter from Fred Green, a "Light" hobbyist of the first water.
